

SINRS ONE-DAY SYMPOSIUM

In association with the Early Modern Studies in Scotland Seminar and supported by the Society for Renaissance Studies

RENAISSANCE SOVEREIGNTY

Saturday, 22 May 2010.

Conference Room 1
The Iris Murdoch Building, University of Stirling

SATURDAY 22 MAY

9.30 a.m.

Registration and coffee

10.15 a.m.

Dermot Cavanagh (University of Edinburgh)
‘Political Theology in George Buchanan's 'Baptistes'’

11.00 a.m.

COFFEE

11.30 a.m.

Jessica Dyson (University of Lancaster)
‘“[T]his waste kinde of antique soveraigntie’: sovereignty and desire in John Ford’s The Broken Heart and The Ladies Triall.’

12.15 p.m.

Alex Campbell (University of Cambridge)
‘The Scottish Engagement and God’s Sovereignty’

1.00 p.m.

LUNCH

2.00 p.m.

John Joughin (University of Central Lancashire)
‘Sovereignty Spooked – Shakespeare’s Rogue States’

2.45 p.m.

Mark Netzloff (University of Wisconsin)
‘Extraterritorial Sovereignities: English Catholic Exiles and the Law of Nations, After the Gunpowder Plot’

3.30 p.m.

TEA

I enclose a cheque for.....

Contact email /telephone.....

Dietary requirements.....

DIRECTIONS

If you are entering the University from the Front Entrance, follow directions to The Management Centre, and proceed along the public road. The Iris Murdoch Centre will be on the left hand side, some 400 yards beyond the Management Centre.

If you are entering the University from the Back Entrance through the Science Park, proceed through the barrier and take the very first turning left. The Iris Murdoch Centre is on your right hand side, some 50 yards from the turning.

There is a car park opposite the Iris Murdoch Building.

If you are in doubt about directions then proceed to Queen's Court (the designated bus-stop on campus) and enquire at the Porters' Lodge at the entry to the Cottrell Building.

John Drakakis
Director: SINRS